

Solution

The problem is solved using the Minimax algorithm, which explores possible future moves and evaluates the resulting game states. The computer acts as the maximizing player and tries to achieve the highest score, while the opponent is considered the minimizing player. By evaluating all possible moves, the algorithm selects the best available move for the computer.